From the Fire Chief

Dear OCFA Family:

The latter month/early fall is a time for each year that I have mentioned, regular fires, rain, tempest, growing wind storms, especially Santa Ana's, and other hazards, which are in store.

Fire Prevention Week, October 6 - 12, 2024, is a time for the Department to remind ourselves of our OCFA's role and our Firefighter responsibilities to the public, and the importance of being ready and prepared.

Let's be safe, be bright and remember the lessons of the Department's fire, rescue, and hazardous materials, and other safety and prevention programs, and be ready for the "Fall" and "Winter" seasons, and the "Holiday" season.

Let's also be safe and be ready for all of our community needs, including the Department's responsibilities, and be ready for our Firefighter Family members who are in need of our support, and be ready for our Firefighter Family members who are in need of our support.

Let's be ready for our community members who are in need of our support, and be ready for our community
